as we see it

A fascinating idea has been offered by Television Digest, which is a TV trade news service. The publication suggests that since the television industry wants to stimulate set sales, it should take a few tips from the auto industry's way of encouraging business.

Besides selecting dealers carefully and allowing more liberal trade-in allowances on old sets, Television Digest urges the television industry to emulate the auto industry's practice of adding something new to each year's model.

Actually, we have had many important changes in sets since the first one went on sale. Manufacturers have modified their cabinets, increased picture tube size and placed sets on swivel stands and on wheels. They've moved tuning dials from place to place and developed semi-portable sets. And, of course, there have been remote control units, tuning gimmicks and even, lately, clock timers.

We can think of several more accessories that would add to television enjoyment. For example, we'd like to see a volume control that would automatically—without our having to touch a knob—tune those loud commercials down to normal level. The engineers at the stations are supposed to do that, but they don't. So an accessory that would do the job would be worth buying.

Push-button tuning would be a nice thing to have, too. It has been tried, but rather early in the game—before most of us became bored with counting the clicks in moving from Channel 2 up to Channel 9.

There are lots of other accessories possible, including, perhaps, a governor that would automatically turn the picture off at the kids' bedtime.

NEW YORK Bob Stahl reports:

Only one new show, of all this summer's newcomers, hit the Top 10 rating list for August, according to Trendex. That, of course, is The $64,000 Question. Others are all established oldies. First five: $64,000 Question, I've Got a Secret, Toast of the Town, Two for the Money and G.E. Theater.

* * *

Toast of the Town, incidentally, passes into limbo as a title this month. Show henceforth will be The Ed Sullivan Show. . . DICK SHAWN already signed for eight guest shots at $12,500 each. Under SULLIVAN's new guest policy, SHAWN can't do any other TV work.

* * *

Universal doing a movie of "The Clown," with HENRY FONDA slated to repeat the role he created last season on G.E. Theater. . . And Theater Guild, which produced "Seventh Veil" for U.S. Steel Hour, hopes to present it on Broadway, again with DIANA LYNN.

* * *

MAX LIEBMAN lined up "The Great Waltz," starring PATRICE MUNSEL, as his second "spectacular," Saturday, Nov. 5. He's signed ANNE JEFFREYS and ROBERT STERLING to star in "Dearest Enemy" later. . . Others on the LIEBMAN roster are ALFRED DRAKE, who will do two shows; GALE SHERWOOD, two; TYRONE POWER, at least one.

* * *

The term "situation comedy" has fallen into such disrepute even the networks now shun it. They're calling 'em "comedy dramas." At least, that's what CBS terms JANIS PAIGE's new show, It's Always Jan.

* * *

Ex-Notre Dame coach FRANK LEAHY comes out of retirement Sept. 29 to headline a new syndicated telefilm program, Football Forecast. He'll predict winners of each Saturday's top games and explain football intricacies.

HOLLYWOOD Dan Jenkins reports:

BING CROSBY will do MAXWELL ANDERSON's "High Tor" as a Ford Star Jubilee for November. It will be a musical version, in color. . . JUDY GARLAND refused to take a 15-cent bet that she'll do a second TV show before the season is over. . . Disneyland starts its new batch of films Wednesday, Sept. 14, with an hour-long version of "Dumbo."

* * *

A Queen's Last Fling

Lee Ann Meriwether Ends Reign As 'Miss America' With TV Starring Role

Not too long ago, a bathing beauty was 36-22-36, and nothing else mattered. Nowadays, though, Miss America's mind often has to be superior, too. The present beauty queen—nearing the end of her reign—reads John Millington Synge and thinks a girl's best friend is her Master's degree.

Last December, Lee Ann Meriwether proved herself not only intelligent but also a gifted actress when she appeared in TV Playhouse's "Run, Girl, Run." Even the trade-paper critics, some of whom had awaited her TV acting debut like headhunters contemplating a victim, were charmed.

This Sunday, Sept. 4, six days before she crowns her successor, Lee will grace another TV Playhouse drama — "The Miss America Story." Despite the play's title and its star, it is neither documentary nor biographical. In fact, to keep it safely "make-believe," author Roger Hiron refused to meet Lee until his script was completed.

So, although the drama will recite the experiences of a beauty-contest winner, they won't be Lee's.

Not that she hasn't had a host of dramatic experiences during her year as Miss America. With Mary Korey, her Pageant Committee-appointed companion, she has flown 125,000 miles and visited 31 states, Canada, Peru, Chile and Brazil. Lee has met mayors, governors, movie stars, the Shah of Iran and Vice President Nixon.

She now has acquired a $5000 cotton wardrobe made by "name" designers, a mink, an ermine stole and "Golly-I don't-know-how-many" wristwatches. She has a $5000 scholarship for any school of her choice, and she's been promised a car—a pink one, she hopes.

She has earned $60,000 doing TV commercials for four sponsors and furnishing commentary for fashion shows. And she learned to water ski.

Lee believes many more girls would enter the Miss America competition if they knew the score. "I mean, it isn't all bathing suits, except for that one time." Even "that one time" didn't bother her. "I'm an actress, so I just made-believe I was some other girl."

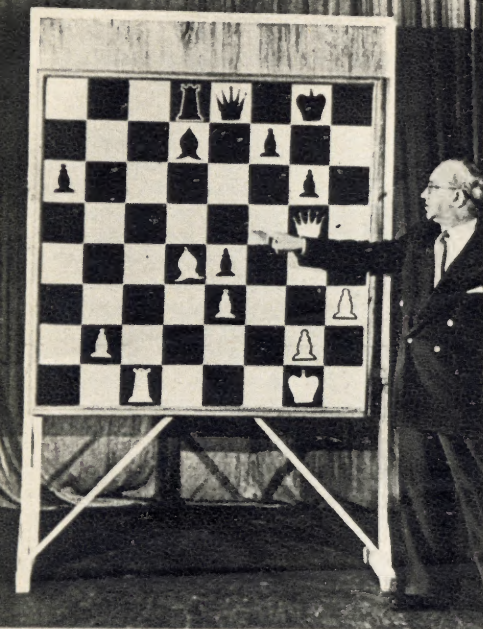

She is determined to latch on to a degree in drama now, while the techniques of costuming, scenery design, directing and producing are still fresh in her mind. But Dave Garroway has been dangling a Today job in front of her. "Golly!" she exclaims. "Wouldn't that be great! But golly, how would I get my Master's degree? Golly," she says breathlessly, "look at all that's happened to me!"—Kathy Pedell

'Your Move,

Soviets Say Their TV Programs

Vyacheslav Ragozin explains chess game.

Moscow Television Center cameramen

Although the Russians, who in recent years have claimed they invented just about everything, say they dreamed up television, too (black and white and color), TV in the Soviet Union lags far behind the U.S. brand.

The Russians have only a small fraction of the number of U.S. stations; operate them fewer hours weekly, and—so far—have no networks.

Programs are state-planned. There is a wide variety of subject matter, but with a single underlying theme. In contrast to our programs, which aim mainly to amuse and entertain, the Russians say theirs are designed to “satisfy cultural requirements of the Soviet people.”

Thus, “Ivan Ivanovich” has been offered play-by-play resumes of international chess matches, poetry, classical music and lectures on such subjects as “Tracer Atoms in Biology.”

However, audiences seem pretty much the same everywhere. Russian viewers seem to give top rating to circus and vaudeville programs, as ◀ Leonid Utyosov and orchestra: 'pop' music.

Comrade'

'Satisfy Cultural Requirements'

cover a sporting event at city's stadium.

Gelena Velikanova sings French songs.

well as those which combine music and education.

Shows are both filmed and "live," and include direct pick-ups from theaters, concert halls and stadiums.

Popular sports shows have borne titles like "On Morning Jerks," "Calisthenics Evening," "Equestrian Sports Event" and (paging Arthur Godfrey!) "Concert on the Ice."

At present, eight "television centers" are operating in the Soviet Union—in Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev, Kharkov, Riga, Omsk, Gorki and Tomsk. Others are being constructed—or planned—in Kuibyshev, Sverdlovsk, Stalino, Minsk, Baku, Tallinn, Tashkent, Vilnius and elsewhere.

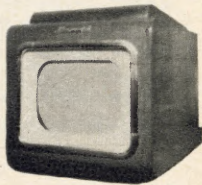

A skilled mechanic must work nearly a month to earn the cost of a small

TV set, and there are just under 1,000,000 sets in Russian homes. However, many have access to "public" sets.

Daily telecasting time is limited. On week days, the Russian stations operate only from 7 P.M. to 11 P.M.; on Saturdays, 6 P.M. to 11 P.M.; on Sundays, from 2 P.M. to 11 P.M., with a one-hour "breather."

There are no shows on Thursday evenings. Explains a recent report by the United Nations' Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO): "It has been necessary to institute a day of rest for the benefit of the producers as well as viewers."

They Sing Before Supper

Daytime Singers Must Make
Housewife Audience Happy

Talk about facing the music! All that these six girls must do is face the most critical audience in the world—the Nation's housewives—five days a week to sing for their supper. Continued eating is not only dependent on their voices and the selections of songs but also, and perhaps even more importantly, on their clothes, makeup, hair-dos and mannerisms. All this comes about because these attractive singers take to the air before dinner, when they have no chance to light up the eyes of appreciative males with their charms but must submit to the critical female gaze. The singers con-

The Gentleman And 'The Bums'

Andre Baruch Is Right At Home Broadcasting For The Dodgers

If you own a TV set, you've heard Andre Baruch (pronounced Ahndray Baroosh) extolling cigarets on Your Hit Parade, Robert Montgomery Presents, Private Secretary and Make Room for Daddy. If you live in Brooklyn, you've also doubtless observed him in another line of work, shooting off his mouth about the Dodgers.

At first glance, Baruch appears to be a little out of place in that Ebbets Field booth. His impeccable dress, urbane manner, pear-shaped vowels and twitching mustache seem to belong elsewhere. But actually Andre is a hearty, two-fisted fellow, as much at home with the pace-setting Dodgers as he ever was in Carnegie Hall.

"I had to fight my way through a jungle of coloratura sopranos to get here," he says, "but I made it."

The battle began when Baruch (real name: Andre Bernard Jean Jacques Rousseau Octavius III Baruch de la Pardo) moved to Brooklyn from his native France at the age of 12. Somehow he wandered into Ebbets Field and promptly became a Dodger fan. The rest took longer.

Baruch, now 49, is probably the only admirer of "dose Bums" to reach Ebbetts Field professionally because of an ability to tinkle the keys of a boardwalk piano. He got his piano-playing start at Radio Station WCGU in Atlantic City; became an announcer sometime later by standing in the wrong line before the employment office at CBS in New York. (He intended to be a studio pianist.) And he reached the zenith—that job with the Dodgers—by bumping into a friend at a Manhattan Scotch-and-water hole.

For many years Baruch had concerned himself with arts other than baseball. On radio his soothing phrases enchanted followers of "The American Album of Familiar Music," "Just Plain Bill" and other enlightening programs. On TV he has become one of that medium's best known, best-paid announcers. Yet all the time he has yearned to revive fond memories of his youth: the sound of a Dodger fan bleating piteously in the late afternoon air, the pungent smell of the Gowanus Canal in the evening, the sight of a dead mackerel rampant on a Red Hook dock in the sunset.

So when Red Barber—beloved "Verse" of Brooklyn baseball—left his post in late 1953 to join forces with the hated New York Yankees, Andre made his move.

At Toots Shor's he cornered Vince Scully, one of Barber's former Ebbets Field associates, and arranged to plead his case before Dodgers president Walter O'Malley. A month later Baruch arrived at the Dodgers' training camp in Vero Beach, Fla., with a trunkful of clothes, a jar of mustache wax and a framed portrait of his wife, singer Bea Wain. He was greeted cordially by Scully and Connie Desmond, then the ranking Dodgers announcers, and with somewhat less warmth by the Dodgers themselves. "They looked," he says, "as if they expected me to burst into an aria."

Andre played baseball-player-type piano, instead, and in a few days was taking swings in batting practice.

"The boys gave me the business for a while," he recalls. "They threw soap balls at me, gave me a break-away bat and soaked my cap in liniment."

On the air, Baruch found he was inclined at first to shriek like a landlady with the rent overdue whenever anyone hit a loud foul. But he gradually developed an approach as casual as a pair of old socks.

At first some fans seemed to resent his replacing the "Verse" of Brooklyn. A few even sent him poison-pen letters. But about halfway through the season Andre discovered that gradually he was being accepted for what he wanted to be—a loyal chronicler of the exploits of Campanella and Co. Today, as he gazes down from the press coop at Ebbets Field, he realizes that, at last, he is in his element.—Frank De Blois

Chicago Dateline

Sammy Davis, Jr., the crafty showman who opens at the Chez Paree Sept. 22, will emcee TV GUIDE's one-hour outdoor remote telecast on Friday, Sept. 23. The show will be screened over Ch. 9, directly from the shopping center in Park Forest, Ill. A master showman, Davis will ring down the curtain on TV GUIDE's nine-day jamboree with an all-star musical variety review featuring Chicago's top video personalities. Big Jim Moran, Ch. 7's man-about-town, has also been booked for the jamboree telecast to handle emcee chores. A third emcee is yet to be signed for the show.

The trend in the industry continues toward diverse telecast locations. Jim Moran presents his third Courtesy Hour remote Friday, Sept. 9, from the Aragon Ballroom on Chicago's Northside. On Saturday, Sept. 17, the fast-rising Lawrence Welk Show moves in for an Aragon origination.

Ch. 5 strikes another first with the colorcast of Live and Learn, Sunday, Sept. 4. This marks the first educational program to be televised in color here.

Contact, seen daily at 5:35 P.M., will add a half-hour segment to the show. Tentative date for the expansion is Monday, Sept. 12.

Danny O'Neil is making an interstate tour of disc jockeys to plug his record hit, "The Matador."

Sarah Churchill makes her Chicago-land stage debut at Hinsdale's Salt Creek Summer Theater this week in "No Time for Comedy."

TV GUIDE launches its 3rd Annual Celebrity Golf Tournament at St. Andrews Country Club in West Chicago, Ill., on Sunday, Sept. 25, and Monday, Sept. 26. The public is invited to visit the tournament and meet TV favorites.

Teen-idol Jim Lounsbury's daily show, Bandstand Matinee, may soon go network. Although current plans are hush-hush, Jim's show would originate over Ch. 9, but would be seen in other cities over another network once a week.

Alex Drier, Ch. 5's robust newscaster, who has been a lifelong apartment dweller, is planning to build a plush, custom-designed home in the country. It is said it will rival Marshall Field's.

Please address all letters to Regional Editor
TV GUIDE, 6 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 2, Ill.

Smooth Forecasting

Charles Johnson, who subbed for Clint Youle, gives the most satisfying weather report in Chicago television. Next to Mr. Johnson, Ch. 9's Carl Greyson is my choice. P. J. Hoff on WBBM-TV makes too much of a show of his "weather report." Meteorology is a science. It ought to be treated in a straight manner without the aid of cartoons and prop weather vanes. On television, maps are the most effective and just about the only acceptable visual aid.—William Olson, Chicago.

Ernie's No Fake

Would you please settle a long-standing argument as to what Ernie Simon's real name is. We will abide by your answer as you are recognized as the supreme authority.—William Post, Chicago. [Ernie Simon is his real name and thank you for the compliment.—Ed.]

Demands Cut And Dried Commercials

Will you please advise all the businessmen who advertise on TV that their constant repetition of words and phrases in their commercials is extremely annoying to the viewing public. There is an automobile dealer in the city who is the worst offender. He advocated short, interesting commercials in the past, but now he has become the most boring and long-winded advertiser on TV.—M. Boghosian, Waukegan, Ill.

Favors Norman

I would like to comment on the subject of TV personalities. We are always hearing about Howard Miller or Tom Duggan doing so and so. I would like

7 BOXING—Syracuse

TV GUIDE RATINGS

Rating	Bouts	W	L	D	KO's
Basilio	Champion	64	46	11	7 21
Turner	8 (M)	57	48	8	1 33

This is an over-the-weight bout for Basilia before a home-town crowd. In Turner he meets a dynamic in-fighter who is always crowding. Basilia features a powerful left-hook and a durable, if not classic, style.

Young Man With A Grin

JOHNNY CARSON HOPES IT'S HERE TO STAY

With many a rataplan on the publicity drums, CBS has launched 29-year-old Johnny Carson as the first network comedian to do his show from Hollywood since an old man of 35 named George Gobel.

The inevitable comparison of Carson and Gobel doesn't seem to be bothering anybody except TV columnists, who dearly love to make such comparisons.

Red Skelton's Headache Was Carson's Big 'Break'

"We expected to be compared to Gobel," he admits. (Carson invariably—and refreshingly—uses the editorial "we" when referring to his show, an apparently unconscious compliment to his staff.) "We're both low-pressure; we both underplay. Gobel is the hottest thing in the field right now, so naturally anyone coming along with even an approximation of his style is going to be compared to him.

"But frankly, we don't think viewers look at it that way at all. If you entertain them, they'll stay with you. If you don't, they'll tune you out. We think it's as simple as that."

Carson is a tall, lanky lad with a boyish appearance that makes him look even younger than he is, a fact which may drive somewhat more venerable funnymen like Jack Benny to hold their heads in their hands and groan softly.

The same Mr. Benny, however, is on record as having stated publicly—not once, but several times—that Johnny Carson is CBS' hottest young comedy prospect in years.

When Red Skelton bopped his head against a non-breakaway breakaway wall during rehearsal one day last winter, Carson received a hurry call to fill the breach. "All the way into the studio," he says, "I kept trying to remember sure-fire gags. It was all so fast, I really didn't have time to get into a nervous tizzy."

It was Benny who led the raving afterward. "Great," he kept insisting, buttonholing everyone in sight, "just great. The kid is great."

Support like this never hurts. CBS, which had been toying with Carson, suddenly got serious about finding a format for him. Egged on by Benny ("No wonder they can't sell him—he's too good, too intelligent—they're all looking for pie throwers"), the network put him on the air June 30, complete with two sponsors, and the fate of young Mr. Carson was thenceforth squarely up to the viewers.

Studio audience sees Carson, technician

Aside from a natural flair for the quieter kind of comedy, Carson is both a listener and a worker. Besides shouldering the burden of being a young comedian tossed into the network whirlpool, he plays an important part in the writing and casting of the show, chores which are generally full-time jobs in themselves.

Right off, Carson and his writers decided to concoct the show strictly on a week-to-week basis. "We've got to avoid the trap of doing the same sort of sketch or routine on every show," he explains, with the business-like air of a brush salesman outlining the year's product. "We par-monitor overhead shows what's on air.

odied Person to Person and What's My Line? on our first two shows, for instance, but then we skipped parodies for a while. If we'd done many more, the audience would start looking for them—and how many shows can you parody? We'll do them as the occasion demands. But not too often.”

He also plans to go easy on the husband-and-wife sketches. “That’s an even worse trap,” he says. “You’ve got to do that sort of thing brilliantly at this point, to get away with it at all. We’d rather keep trying to make the show as different as possible.”

Carson does plan, however, to use his wife, Jody, on the show on what might be called an irregularly regular basis; and, until he signed singer Jill Corey for an eight-week stint, she was the only girl with any reasonable expectation of sticking. Carson already had run through several singers trying to find one who fitted, and even considered using a different one every week.

“Who knows?” Johnny says almost cheerfully, when queried about plans for specific dates. “We may not even be on the air by that time.”

Carson was born in Corning, Iowa, moving at the age of 8 to Norfolk, Neb., where he later made himself a small reputation as a mail order-tutored magician and ventriloquist. He had a hitch in the Navy during World War II, went through the University of Nebraska on the GI Bill and got his early TV experience, beginning in 1948, on WOW-TV, Omaha.

An old family friend, CBS-TV producer Bill Brennan, talked him into coming to Hollywood. Carson moved in 1950. He and Jody, whom he met in college and married in 1949, now have three young boys—Kit, five; Ricky, three, and Cory, just pushing two.

Carson spent his first year in Hollywood as a staff announcer with the local CBS station, KNXT, meanwhile working up a format for something of his own. In the fall of 1951 he started a local show, Carson's Cellar. It lasted 26 weeks and was pronounced reasonably successful. Later, CBS gave him a crack at emceeding a summer show, Earn Your Vacation. He did all right. He also continued writing on the side, including monologs for Red Skelton—and that was one thing that didn't get knocked out of Skelton's head when he hit that breakaway-proof wall.

He hollered for Carson, and Carson came running.

Which is as good a way as any for a young comedian to be pushed into his own show these days.

Fish Watcher's

GUIDE

Text By Catherine Christopher
 Drawings By Dick Miller

Television is a dandy lure for fishy characters. When you spot a Something Smelt, a Monitor Carp, an Absorbed Mullet, you come to realize how far TV has you up a creek. Other see-going oddities seek the TV channels, too. Among these finny friends and fiends are some you know—and wish you didn't.

The Fried Shrimp. A species more common in the early days, before they took the 'T' and 'V' out of TaVern. Home TV has decimated its numbers.

The Square Flounder. A forgetful species that can never keep in mind who's on first or even who's ahead. By an ironic twist of Fate, it's usually married to the Dodger Dolphin, which knows all the answers—better than the umpire.

The Amorous Octopus varies an old theme. It advances optical reasons for dousing the lights during a telecast. Then, apparently all set for some intensive woo-pitching, it changes its mind. What happens then? It simply watches TV.

The Superior Shark. This one digs the Red Herring and the Snide Lompoons in political programs. It also notes the lowbrow of the hopeless ignoramus who thinks Stephen C. Foster wrote 'Corry Me Bock to Ole Virginnny.' This ormchoir quiz-whiz knows all the answers. Too bod it doesn't hove to sweat out The $64,000 Question!

The Spectator Soles include (a) The Trusting onnd (b) The Poor. The Trusting Solé expects to find o Berle in every oyster. And The Poor Sole . . . does!

Tom D'Andrea and Hal March: their sad-sack roles are typical of the whole program.

The Soldiers

PROGRAM OF THE WEEK

Tom D'Andrea and Hal March created The Soldiers several seasons back as an occasional act for the Comedy Hour. Apparently encouraged by an overwhelming lack of critical acclaim, they have expanded the idea into a half-hour series that NBC gambled on this summer as a Saturday night replacement.

The idea in its original shorter form was never much, and spreading it to a half hour has only compounded the felony. That NBC itself isn't too excited about The Soldiers is proved by the fact that the show was pre-empted twice this summer for one-shot programs.

D'Andrea and March play a couple of GI sad-sacks whose abysmal ignorance about all things continually gets them into scrapes with Army brass, their girl friends and practically everyone else. There's nothing wrong about basing a comedy show on the Army—witness "No Time for Sergeants." But D'Andrea and March play such stupid dolts that there's little humor left.

We might assume that both D'Andrea and March have been around long enough to steer clear of such shows. D'Andrea, a veteran TV and radio comic, played Gillis in The Life of Riley. March portrayed Marie Wilson's boy friend on My Friend Irma and Imogene Coca's boy friend last season and is currently doing a fine job as emcee of The $64,000 Question.

Windows

CBS' Windows is an excellent example of how TV can dress up an otherwise routine series of dramatic shows with a single gimmick. In this case, the gimmick lies in the title. The viewer is let in on dramatic doings via a peek through a window.

What he sees, when he gets past the window, is a somewhat better-than-average dramatic series which utilizes both stars and non-stars, depending—a radically wise idea!—on who fits which script.

The first of the series came rather a cropper, beginning with an excellent premise (all the children of a neighborhood disappear at the same time) and then slowly falling apart at the seams. A later drama, however, told an engrossing story of a girl locked in an apartment from which there was no escape, this being her estranged husband's way of driving her out of her mind. The show also has done a good job of handling a Ray Bradbury excursion into the unknown.—D.J.

FINE TUNING

By Ollie Crawford

Expert contends soap-opera heroines are "too chic." They may suffer, but their wardrobes don't.

The gals are just typical average housewives in typical average $500 house dresses.

The soap-opera heroines are the gals who contract rare tropical diseases and break out in $50 hats. Portia just can't face Life without her mink stole. She has tragedies, but wearing last season's hat isn't one of them. Emaline may lose the old homestead, but she manages to hang on to the new Dior.

Even "John's Other Wife" looks smarter than John's other wife.

The boy's point is that the average real housewife wears a bathrobe modeled by Jess Willard for the Dempsey fight, slippers that splay out like snowshoes and a hairdo that inspired the song "Rag Mop." There hasn't been a female like that on TV since "Tugboat Annie Meets Abbott and Costello."

Soap opera is where the tornado can wreck a gal's house without touching her coiffure.

The whole thing just proves that in soap opera, it's the woman who Rue de la Paix's.

Jane Wyatt, Robert Young going over letters that saved Father.

P.S.—We Want 'Father'!

Letters From Viewers Bring Back A Show
—At Expense Of Higher-Rated Program

Ratings or no ratings, it's still Mr. and Mrs. Average Viewer who dictate what they're to see on TV. And lest anyone doubt it, just look at Father Knows Best, a situation comedy show that has just returned to TV, strictly by popular demand. Co-starring Robert Young and Jane Wyatt, Father won fame as one of TV's few situation comedies that don't cast Pop as a dim-wit.

In the case of Father, the much overworked phrase, "brought back by popular request," is not meaningless. When the show, telecast Sunday nights on CBS last winter, was canceled by its sponsor, thousands of irate viewers bombarded the network and TV columnists with complaints. Result: Father last week became a regular Wednesday night series on NBC.

Ironically, Father takes over the NBC time period occupied by My Little Margie, which also was brought back—honestly—by popular demand. Margie started originally as a summer replacement but proved so popular with viewers that NBC sold it to a sponsor for the regular season. (Re-runs of Margie will now be syndicated to local stations.)

It's ironic, too, that Father never achieved as high a rating as the show it replaces. The average rating for Father during its original 26-week run on CBS was 20.5. Margie's average rating during its last 39-week season on NBC was 27.3.

In dropping a popular program in favor of one with a lower rating, sponsor reportedly had in mind the many viewer requests for Father. He knew that Father, a show with an all-family audience appeal, was telecast too late to get many children viewers. With its new, earlier spot, Father this year may outdraw Margie.

The sponsor was influenced by viewers who said they liked the show because it represents American family life as it really is and not as some TV scriptwriter thinks it is—or should be.

A New Jersey housewife wrote: "How we have enjoyed Father Knows Best! We have always regretted that our daughters, 11 and 13, had to miss it because of its time. Is there anything we can do about keeping it on?"

Declared a Chicago patrolman: "In over two decades as a police officer I have been fighting law violators and . . . lecturing on delinquency. Sunday evenings are spent with my family, and the outstanding program fit for people of all ages, Father Knows Best, now is to be eliminated. My anger and that of my family is such that mere words cannot express it."

A Cincinnati housewife: "Believe me, if the sponsors cannot tell when they have a good show, why should I believe they know what they are talking about when it comes to their products?"

A Chicago woman: "Perhaps you do not realize the pleasure this intriguing show brings to people who remember their own youthful family life with nostalgia. Please keep it."

And this from one of TV's most Innocent victim: Gale Storm pretending anger as she tears up letters. Her program, My Little Margie, was forced off by mail for Father Knows Best.

merciless critics, John Crosby: "Unless somebody does something about it, Father Knows Best will be dropped off the air . . . This would be a crying scandal because Father Knows Best is one of the most honest and appealing and thoroughly delightful situation comedies on TV."

Perhaps Robert Young himself has the best answer to why "Bring Back Father" became the battle-cry of so many viewers. In discussing situation comedies, he asserts: "There's more to comedy than laughs—to which many now-defunct shows will attest. Comedy must be believable."

When work first started on Father, "We knew mostly what we didn't want," Young said. "We didn't want a father who was always blowing his top, or a mother who dominated her husband, or kids who were so smart that they made their folks look like morons. And we particularly didn't want Pop to fall off a ladder or down a flight of stairs every week. How many fathers do you know—living, I mean—who could stand that, week after week?"

HOLLYWOOD . . . Jack Benny, perennially "39," reports he positively will age one year on his next birthday—Feb. 14, Valentine's Day. "I'll turn 40," he says, "with a big celebration on the show." . . . Jimmy Durante will use the filmed television show with Carmen Miranda, completed the day before she died. Only one line will be cut—Miss Miranda's comment, "I'm out of breath," near the end. . . . Now that Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis are back together, Dean will get more of the laughs.

■ Michael O'Shea heard some of the crew complimenting co-star Jimmy Dunn on how young-looking he is—and the fact he hasn't even one gray hair. "Sure," interrupted Mike, "he blackens his shoes every day, too!"

■ Betty Hutton won't sign for more than one "spectacular" with NBC for the fall. "I want to see if they like me before I do a series. This one I'll do on my own, with no interference. It'll be a vaudeville show like the one I did in New York and at Las Vegas." . . . Diana Lynn refused the Joan Caulfield part in the revamped My Favorite Husband. "I don't want a series," she explains. "I love doing the one-hour shows." . . . Sheree North was tossed off a coast-to-coast interview program when she arrived sans make-up when the show was one-third over.

■ Eddie Albert and wife Margo are preparing a new "Mr. and Mrs." TV series about a couple who run a boarding house for out-of-work actors. . . . Marie Wilson dreamed she was a contestant on The $64,000 Question. "I won the $64,000," she says, "and raced to the bank for my money, only to find I had a rubber check. I woke up screaming!" . . . George Gobel may have an entirely different TV family this season. Peggy King wanted more money and format changes could divorce him from his TV wife, Jeff Donnell.

Betty Hutton: on her own.

■ Art Linkletter will be commuting between Hollywood and New York for his color spectaculars. . . . Eve Arden, now filming a full-length feature based on Our Miss Brooks, needed some students who looked like students for a high school scene, and decided to hire the real McCoy. "After interviewing all the kids in one school, I found them all too young. I had to use my own (fairly grown-up) TV pupils." . . . Groucho Marx told me he was exhausted from so much traveling. "You intend to settle down?" I asked. "To settle up," quipped the comedian.

■ Jim Backus, who portrayed Joan Davis' husband in I Married Joan, says he's looking for a sound-proof booth like the one on The $64,000 Question. "For my mother-in-law."

NEXT WEEK: EARL WILSON

RED SKELTON's first Climax! appearance, "Public Pigeon No. 1," is set for Sept. 8 . . . OTTO KRUGER will be the permanent host on Lux Video Theater, replacing JAMES MASON. He'll start Thursday, Sept. 8, appearing on the last three summer shows.

Let confusion be your guide. My Favorite Husband will return, but without JOAN CAULFIELD, who is going back to pictures. BARRY NELSON, who had decided to leave the show because of his differences with MISS CAULFIELD, will now stay with it. VANESSA BROWN will replace MISS CAULFIELD. BOB SWEENEY switches from Husband to Our Miss Brooks, who will switch from a public high school to a private school. Husband will switch from live to film, possibly at Desilu, which also films Brooks.

WASHINGTON Florence Lowe reports:

CBS blazed another trail in TV coverage of hurricanes as Connie approached the Nation's capital. Network cameras used the Air Force's new radarscope at nearby Andrews Field to film the storm 300 miles away . . . And Civil Air Patrol has offered TV newsreel cameramen the use of planes for reconnaissance photography flights during this season's series of violent "ladies."

CONNIE B. GAY, D.C. area's country music impresario, who parlayed a job as Government agricultural scientist into one of the most successful hillbilly careers in show business, has just signed a seven-year contract with RCA for a series of country music films, entirely in color. Forty stations coast to coast already have signed for the series.

Lovely DINA MERRILL, of Pond's Theater commercials, turns dramatic actress in Four Star Playhouse's upcoming "A Place Full of Strangers," with DICK POWELL. She is the daughter of MRS. MERRIWEATHER POST, General Foods heiress and social leader; and wife of STANLEY RUMBAUGH, JR., former White House assistant.

Arthur Godfrey is news...

He always has been. But with a difference.

In the eyes of newspaper men, once upon a time, Arthur could do no wrong. Columnists hailed him as a bright, refreshing individualist — "the freshest, most personable, most engaging comedian seen in years," in fact.

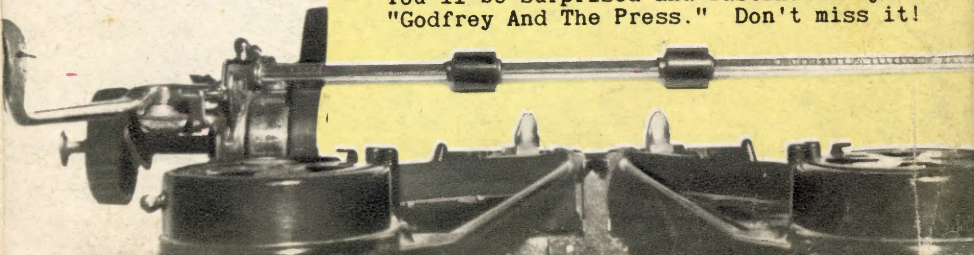

All that is changed. Seldom does the press comment on him without some reference to ... arrogance ... highhanded behavior ... lack of mature judgment. How did this come about? How did Arthur alienate his most fervent rooting section — the working press?

Next week, TV GUIDE presents the first of two articles about "Godfrey And The Press." It recounts, in the kind words of America's top journalists, the rise of Godfrey. And in less kind words, the turn of the tide.

"Godfrey And The Press" is more than just an interesting story. In a way, it is a character study. Reading the comments of top writers — as their attitudes shifted from praise to condemnation — you may understand a little more clearly the complex personality of the man himself. You'll be surprised and fascinated by "Godfrey And The Press." Don't miss it!
